

Whoever You May Be

If you could write your life's story, what would we read?

Would you be a brave explorer, trekking across uncharted terrain?

Would you be a conductor, leading the harmonious sounds of an exquisite symphony?

Would you be a scientist using the scientific method along with your brilliant mind to make a ground-breaking discovery?

Or, would you simply be you, whoever that may be? No matter who you might become or wherever your life's journey leads you, you are exactly who you are meant to be...

Courtney B. Dunlap's books open an imaginary world in which Black and Brown students see adventurers who look like them. As a passionate author and educator, she has partnered with schools and various organizations worldwide to inspire children to tell their own stories.

Author's voice:

Courtney Dunlap